WHY ALL OF THEM, NOW

Not one of these carries its own price. Each rides on a subscription you already pay for.

That tells you what the race is actually for.

WHAT THEY SELL

An assistant that acts.

WHAT THEY DEFEND

The subscription you already have.

ANTHROPIC'S CEO, ON 2026

Dario Amodei's odds that a billion-dollar one-employee company arrives this year.

READ THE CATEGORIES HE NAMED

Trading, developer tools, automated support. All three sell software. None has to make or ship a thing.

So what does a $300 stack actually replace?

IT REPLACES

Execution. The defined, repeatable work.

IT DOES NOT

Judgement when the rules aren't clear yet.

Run this on your own week before you buy any of them:

- ① List every task you did twice
- ② Mark the ones that needed a judgement call
- ③ What is left unmarked is what an agent can take

AUTOMATIONS WE RUN INSIDE CLIENT BUSINESSES

They took over the follow-up nobody had time for. Not one replaced a decision.

Agents replace the doing. They have not touched the deciding.
